(NaturalNews) When conventional doctors told 74-year-old Danny McDonald of Dunaff, Ireland, that he had stomach cancer so severe that it would likely kill him within three months, he decided to ignore their advice to undergo toxic chemotherapy treatments and instead embrace a nutritional approach to healing. Four years later and Danny is doing great, thanks to daily protocol he adopted that involves juicing and drinking wheatgrass, a nutrient-dense "superfood" with a variety of amazing health benefits. According to Sunday World, Danny became aware of his condition when an ulcer suddenly burst inside his abdomen one day. After being rushed to a hospital from the farmhouse where he lives, doctors struggled to contain the bleeding, only to discover that Danny actually had a severe form of stomach cancer that had spread throughout his body. They warned him that the only way to get rid of it, in their opinion, was to undergo conventional chemotherapy treatment. Unlike most people, Danny decided to think for himself by researching other methods of treatment. He later notified his doctors, to their chagrin, that he would be opting for his own homemade treatments involving wheatgrass rather than the poison. Not surprisingly, they were quite angry with his decision, insisting that he would be "dead in a matter of weeks" if he refused to comply with their advice. But Danny stood his ground and chose the wheatgrass instead.

"I told the doctors I wasn't prepared to undergo the course of treatments they had suggested," Danny is quoted as saying by Sunday World. "I knew it would kill me. They were furious I had come to that conclusion. The consultant warned me I'd be dead in three months." Defying the advice of conventional doctors could save your life Far from being a rushed or uninformed decision, Danny's choice to use wheatgrass as treatment for his cancer was based on numerous accounts he had heard from a friend about the amazing healing capacity of wheatgrass. Over time, Danny became increasingly more convinced that wheatgrass is capable of healing all sorts of health conditions, including cancer. So he decided to put his 60 years' worth of farming experience to task by growing his own wheatgrass. "I didn't know what to expect, but I was determined to give it a go," recalls Danny. "Within seven days the burning sensation I had in my side was gone and I was beginning to feel a lot better. I stopped taking the tablets which had been prescribed and I haven't taken one since. A month later the pain had completely disappeared and I knew I was on the mend. The wheatgrass was working. I had made the right decision to reject the advice of the doctors."

Not only was Danny able to discontinue use of the synthetic medications he had been prescribed, but he also gained back all the weight he had lost as a result of using them for his illness. Starting with just one ounce of wheatgrass juice a day and working his way up to seven ounces of wheatgrass a day, Danny effectively cured his cancer and is now a living testament to the life regenerating power of wheatgrass. "I know a lot of doctors think wheatgrass doesn't have the qualities to kill cancer, but I am living proof that it does," he adds. "And although many doctors won't admit it publicly, gradually they are coming around to see the benefits of wheatgrass. People ask me how I did it and I just say one word, 'wheatgrass.'"

Stomach cancer cells halted with whole tomato extracts...

(NaturalHealth365) If you're concerned about stomach cancer or your overall digestive health ... this news will be of great interest to you. The Mediterranean diet has become regarded as highly beneficial to overall health, maintaining ideal weight and a reduced risk of cancer plus many other chronic disease conditions. One of the staples of this diet is tomatoes, especially the low-acid varieties that are grown in Italy and its impact on cancer risk is quite interesting. Recent research by the Sbarro Institute for Molecular Medicine at Temple University in Philadelphia, Pa. has confirmed that two tomato cultivars grown in Southern Italy inhibit both malignant features and cellular growth in stomach cancer cells.

Tomato extract changes stomach cancer cell behavior, leading to cancer cell death. For the study, whole tomato lipophilic extracts were analyzed for their ability to fight and diminish neoplastic features of stomach cancer cells. Both the Corbarino and San Marzano tomato varieties were found to inhibit the cloning behavior of malignant cancer cells as well as impede their growth. Also involved in this research were scientists from The National Cancer Institute of Naples, Pascale Foundation, CROM and the National Research Council of Pozzuoli, Italy. When tomato extracts were used on stomach cancer cells, key processes related to cell development, migration and proliferation were inhibited. The tomato extracts ultimately induced apoptosis, or cancer cell death in cancer cells. The study results were published in the Journal of Cellular Physiology.

The whole tomato found to contribute to its anticancer properties...

Significantly, the tomato extracts contributed to the movement of cancer cells away from the primary tumor, which resulted in their death. These anticancer effects weren't related to just one particular compound such as lycopene. Instead, the whole tomato seemed to contribute to its anticancer effects. Previous studies had suggested the carotenoid compound lycopene, which creates the orange-red color of tomatoes, is what fights cancer cells. While lycopene may still be a major factor, the entire tomato seemed to have a highly potent effect against cancer. Stomach cancer is the fourth most common cancer type in the world and the most common among older adults. About 60 percent of individuals diagnosed with gastric cancer are age 65 or older. Its main causes are Helicobacter pylori infection, genetic predisposition and poor eating habits. Salty and smoked foods seem to be among the most harmful in terms of triggering or contributing to the onset of stomach cancer.

In light of this study, researchers are particularly excited about the possibility of analyzing and using different tomato cultivar extracts for different positive health effects. Some species work better than others against different phases of cancer cell growth, and this information could be applied in a targeted way to help promote healing. The researchers believe whole tomato extracts could be used generally in the treatment and prevention of stomach cancer. In the meantime, eating more tomatoes and other organic fruits and vegetables can help anyone to cultivate better health with an anticancer lifestyle.

PS from FactorReady: The above 2 articles re: stomach issues are well worth sharing. Should you have interest in growing your own ultra-healthy and fresh home grown wheatgrass right in your own kitchen visit web sites such as TrueLeafMarket.com. You can also acquire wheatgrass powder ready for consumption (just add filtered water) from activz.com. Note: Such powders are thought to retain all needed nutrients by some, but doubted by others. Live fresh juicing of wheatgrass as well as organic fruits and vegetables is a proven major factor in rapidly achieving or restoring good health. This is verified in classic health books such as "Live Food Juices" by Dr. H.E. Kirschner and "Fresh Vegetable and Fruit Juices" by Dr. N.W. Walker. Both books are highly recommended by the late Jay Kordich, the Father of Juicing and author of "Power Of juicing." On a side note, animal models have produced results, suggesting that d-limonene, such as found in lemon essential oil, may help to slow the growth of pancreatic, stomach, colon, skin, and liver cancers. According to research cited by the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, d-limonene "slowed formation of tumors and their progression in animals exposed to cancer-causing substances. Good therapeutic grades (USDA pure organic) lemon oils may be found at organixx.com and PlantTherapy.com and others. Note that most oils are synthetic and used for aroma purposes and are not suited for ingestion or direct skin usage. Other sites such as <http://www.natural-homeremedies.com/effective-herbal-remedies-for-stomach-cancer/> list herbal benefits for stomach cancers derived from Garlic (take 2-4 g/day of minced garlic cloves), consume 2-3 cups of Green Tea per day (Matcha type is considered most potent). Plus, Asian Ginseng (is said to slow cancerous tumor growths), Chaparral (helps body fight cancer cells), and Astragalus (250-500mg or 20-30 tincture drops thrice daily boosts the immune system and stimulates interferon production).

Another fact is the cancer fighting ability of carrots. We are personally aware of three folks that were able to resolve their cancers with primarily the daily heavy-duty juicing of fresh carrots, including Ann Cameron, author of "Curing Cancer With Carrots." A pdf starter summary of her book is found on our web site, FactorReady.com, under Downloads, in the Health Tips folder. Plus, see our Juicing Factors pdf article as well. Also, see our general Health tab full article for various anti-cancer suggestions. If seeking alternatives for cancer solutions you may also wish to consider mega-dosing of vitamin C via IV and/or orally with the Liposomal form. See various documentations at PeakEnergy.com (Dr. Thomas Levy's web site), and LivOnLabs.com (a quality Liposomal source), and DoctorYourself.com (Dr. Andrew Saul's web site). We also like Irish Doctor John Kelly's book, "Stop Feeding Your Cancer." He has been able to help resolve various cancers experienced by his patients with a plant food based diet including fish for protein with deletion of animal protein and dairy. This was based on "The China Study" by Dr. T. Colin Campbell at nutritionstudies.org. Stay well, Stay Prepared and Stay Prayed Up!
