

What are the Natural Treatment for Throat Cancer and Its Symptoms...

By A R...August 12, 2011

<http://www.simple-remedies.com/home-remedies/ent-disorder/throat-cancer-symptoms.html>

Throat Cancer Symptoms...

Constant mild to severe coughing that will not go away.

Unusual changes in voice. Generally, patients with throat cancer will develop hoarseness of voice.

Difficulties and pain in swallowing and chewing.

Pain in the ears that can continue for long periods of time.

Sores or lumps in the throat that won't heal.
These lumps can also be observed in the mouth, neck, and on the lips.

Sore throat that won't heal even with administration of antibiotics.

A feeling that something is trapped in the throat.

Red and white patches that are observed in the tongue, gums, and lining inside the mouth.

Pain, numbness, and bleeding in the mouth.

Inflammation and pain in the jaw, neck area, and upper teeth.

Coughing out blood.

Sudden and unintentional weight loss.

Breathing problems.

Bad breath

Difficulties in speaking.

Chronic headaches.

Blocked sinuses. Blockage will not go away even with administration of decongestants and medications for sinusitis.

Nosebleed

Swelling in the eyes.

Throat Cancer Natural Treatment...

Stop smoking.

Smoking only makes treatment procedures less effective and makes healing difficult after surgery. It also heightens risks of developing another form of cancer in the future.

THROAT CANCER NATURAL AIDS...via: FactorReady.com ...

Stop regular consumption of alcoholic drinks. This can prevent development of another throat cancer and can also help patients tolerate treatments normally administered.

Acupuncture. This has been proven to alleviate pain associated with the condition and improves swallowing abilities of patients. Targeted sites include the small and large intestines, lungs, larynx, tonsils, and auricular points that connect the pharynx and esophagus.

Massage Therapy and Acupressure. Both procedures alleviate the pain that patients experience.

Relaxation techniques like meditation.

Elm powder mixed with filtered water can help soothe swelling and pain.

Maritime pine extract mixed with water and consumed on a daily basis can help boost the immune system and help manage symptoms. This extract is a rich source of antioxidants.

Graviola. This is a kind of fruit-bearing tree which is also known as Brazilian pawpaw or soursop and has been proven to have annonaceous acetogenins, which are chemicals that have cytotoxic properties. Pulp of the fruit, leaves, and almost all parts of the tree has been processed and made into capsules as supplements for patients diagnosed with cancer.

IMPORTANT Factor Ready NOTE: Be sure and read the Graviola (Paw Paw) Cautions article at: <https://www.cancertutor.com/graviola/>

Budwig Diet. This specialized diet focuses on consuming foods that are rich in amino acids that contain sulfur and omega-3 fatty acids. Flax oil is recommended as the source for omega 3 since fish often contains toxins. Cottage cheese and yogurt are some of the best sources of sulfur containing amino acids. These ingredients should be mixed in a blender for the concoction to work properly.

Factor Ready NOTE: See our Budwig Health Mix pdf article under Downloads in the Health Tips folder. Also, the Budwig Diet at BudwigCenter.com and Budwig-Videos.com

Herbal Treatment for Throat Cancer...

by Charlotte Waterworth... Last Updated: Aug 14, 2017

<https://www.livestrong.com/article/489741-herbal-treatment-for-throat-cancer/>

Throat cancer, also known as cancer of the larynx, is an uncommon form of cancer. A number of factors might contribute to its development, including smoking, drinking alcohol and exposure to air-borne pollutants, although U.K. health information website, Patient UK, notes that it can develop for no apparent reason. Throat cancer is commonly treated with surgery, radiotherapy or chemotherapy, or a combination of these treatments. Some herbs, including green tea, might also have anti-cancer effects, but should not be used in place of conventional cancer treatments. Consult your physician before using herbal remedies.

Green Tea...

Although often referred to as Chinese or Japanese tea, green tea is an herbal beverage enjoyed in many parts of the world and is also prized for therapeutic effects. The Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center notes that it is sometimes used as a complementary treatment for a host of ailments including gastrointestinal disorders and high cholesterol. It might also play a role in the prevention and treatment of cancer and may work by inducing cancer cell death.

Visit...FactorReady.com for Updated Health & Emergency Tips & Resources...

Research...

Scientific research into the effects of green tea on throat cancer is lacking. However, the results of laboratory study published in 2003 in "Folia Histochemica et Cytobiologica" show that the green tea compound, epigallocatechin-3-gallate, inhibits the growth of laryngeal cancer cells. Subsequent study findings published in the September 2009 issue of "Archives of Pharmaceutical Research" confirm these effects. However, clinical trials evaluating green tea's efficacy are required to determine how effective it might be in supporting throat cancer treatment.

Administration...

Green tea is commonly consumed as a beverage, but green tea extract is also available in capsules for health-food stores. Since green tea is not a proven treatment for throat cancer, there is little guidance available regarding a suitable dose. However, MedlinePlus notes that a typical therapeutic dose of green tea is three cups daily. Ask your doctor for advice regarding a suitable dose for you.

Safety Considerations...

Consuming more than five cups of green tea daily may cause side effects including tremor, restlessness, insomnia, headache and nausea. It might also interact with other drugs you might be taking, including oral contraceptives, anticoagulants and antibiotics. The Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center notes that it might also negate the effects of the anti-cancer drug, bortezomib. If you are taking this drug, avoid green tea.

PS from FactorReady.com : Find out more about the Budwig Diet at BudwigCenter.com and the Budwig Health Mix. Also, see our Health tab article at FactorReady.com as well as specific pdf articles under Downloads tab. As for Green Tea most recommend the Matcha type for the most potency and the organic variety. Stay Well, Stay Prepared and Stay Prayed Up !